ASB PRESIDENT
by TOM CRUM

Article IX, Section 1a of the Constitution states: "The ASB President shall serve as the chief executive of the ASB. He shall preside at all ASB Assemblies and Central Board meetings, and he shall have appointive powers to be used at his own discretion in the expedition of student government." Let's go between the lines.

As the "... chief executive of the ASB ..." the student body president must be conscious of the programs of all Central Board departments. Such awareness is the result of working with the departmental personnel. He should be constantly alert to possible methods of improving the quality of these departments, both for the present and the future. In essence, the president must be a knowledgeable leader and follower in his daily relationships with these departments.

In this departmental work, the president must be cognizant of another relationship: the effects of departmental actions on the faculty and the administration. They are a vital part of the ASB. Their feelings can not be ignored. Thus, the president is the liaison between these areas. To ignore them greatly hinders the effectiveness of both present and future administrations.

"... presiding at all ASB Assemblies and Central Board meetings ..." is an obvious task of the president. "... ASB Assemblies ..." include Christmas Around Campus, Freshman Orientation Assemblies, Matricula-

FIRST VICE PRESIDENT
by CHUCK BUSH

A position on the Executive Committee of the Student Body as 1st Vice President gives a person who has a desire to work, all the opportunity necessary. There are only a few required jobs as stated in the A.S.B. Constitution.

Article IX, Section 1b states that the 1st Vice President takes the position of President upon his absence, is chairman of the Publications Committee, and arranges all A.S.B. Assemblies. Article VII, Section 1 states that he is chairman of the Elections Board. That's it!

There are only two periods in which the Election Board functions, for the Freshman Elections in the Fall, and the General and Class Elections in the Spring. Publications Committee meets whenever you or one of the members feel it necessary. The Budget is prepared in the Spring and there is at least one Leadership Conference that is required. Central Board meets once a week and so does Finance Committee of which the 1st Vice President is a member. The rest of the time is yours.

During campaign time each Spring, there is the constant talk of comparison between one administration and another. What has so and so done with his henchmen during the year as compared with Sam Smith and his boys the year before? Of course, the person put on the spot with the question, thinks only of the large, noticeable actions characterizing the particular year. No one ever seems to dig into the

2ND VICE PRESIDENT
by MARY BROWN

The job of the 2nd Vice President is very, very varied. The number of activities which are of concern to this officer provide few dull moments. He (or she—since sex isn't the main issue in this campaign) has an average of one meeting a day, with more on the better days. As a member of Publications Committee, he gets in on all the rumors about the Trail, Tamanawas, and Cross Currents (and there are several!).

As editor of the Logger Ledger, he finds out all kinds of interesting facts about the departments, fraternities, sororities, and other organizations, as well as printers, lay-outs, proofs, and mistakes.

This year a new committee has been formed and the 2nd Vice President has the honor of chairmanship. The purpose of this committee is to set up a program of entertainment every Friday afternoon in the north side of the Student Center. This committee is a result of a discussion at the last Fall Leadership Conference. The new 2nd Vice President will have the opportunity of continuing this program if it is found to fulfill a need and is well accepted by the student body.

As a member of Executive Committee, this Vice President has a desk of his very own and is a part of all the major decisions that pass through the Associated Student Body office.

As a member of Central Board, he gets the unquestionable honor of sitting next to the First Vice President (and who could ask for anything more?!?)

ASB SECRETARY
by LINDA EYERLY

If "variety is the spice of life," as that sage old proverb states—then surely the office of Student Body Secretary is blessed abundantly with cinnamon, nutmeg, and ginger.

You'll find her at all meetings Of ASB concern
And what she didn't know at first—
She'll pretty quickly learn.

She takes down notes,
And hangs up coats.
She dusts the floors,
the desks,
the doors.

She lends from the Buck Bank,
Five dollars—No More!
To use after you've bought it—
Or even before.

She helps with the budget
And later turn green,
To learn that they think she's
A Walking Adding Machine!

She check out pool equipment
From nine o'clock 'till three.
Just ten cents each half hour
And ping-pong paddles free!

She runs off all the ditto work
And oft to her disgrace,
Instead of on the paper—
It's on her hands and face.

She learns accounting
And poster mounting,
Attends to the moans,
the groans,
and the phones.

Sees eyes that are gleaming
with scheming
and dreaming —

And Loves It!

A campus newspaper published weekly (Wednesdays) except vacation and testing periods during the academic year by the ASBUPS. Phone SKyline 2-3455. Located at 1500 North Warner, Tacoma. Yearly subscription rates are three dollars. Entered as second-class postage paid at Tacoma, Washington.

Editorial Comment . . . .

DURING last week's CB meeting, the coffee shop edition, a member of the Board asked me why it was that the Trail gave so much of its space to the recent Winter Carnival at Bend. He made the comment that $100 worth of space was given to a very little percentage of the student body.

The University of Puget Sound was lucky enough to participate in the biggest winter show in history. Over thirty schools attended this meet. The publicity this school received was tremendous (much more than $100 worth).

We could see the big story coming. As a result the Trail sent to Bend a three-man press delegation. Our staff was given first class treatment. We met delegations from five states plus Canada. We interviewed, along with members of the press from A.P., U.P.I., and the top papers in the state of Oregon, all of the major dignitaries of the Winter Carnival. We also talked with leading celebrities, including the Four Freshmen.

More than one hundred Trails will be sent out to schools all over the United States. We plan to send last week's edition of the Trail to members of Bend's Chamber of Commerce and its city government.

Unfortunately UPS does not get a chance often to participate in a big-time show. The ski team and delegation to Bend travelled there by car. PLU on the other hand had a special bus and appeared first class all of the way. The Willamette College delegation was given $120 by its Student Senate to make the trip. UPS, which had to go several hundreds of miles farther, was turned down flat by CB. The University of Nevada was given official school cars. The UPS delegation had to use their own.

Next year's show will even be bigger. A major television network is presently being lined up to cover the event. LET'S SEND OUR DELEGATION FIRST CLASS NEXT TIME!

Executive Officers State Views For Elections Coming Up Soon

by TOM CRUM

tion, Thanksgiving Dinner, Conventions (when we have them!), etc. Central Board meetings are weekly; the president chairs each one. Furthermore, the variety of "special" meetings that occur annually are often under his gavel. Let's face it: chairing meetings is a constant task!

The president should employ his appointive powers for the best . . . expedition of student government . . . Following set patterns is not enough; he must also be creative. Keeping an ear to the ground greatly aids the initiating of new concepts in student government. However, the president must be individually originative too. Combining individual and group originality is another "must" for the president.

" . . . discretion . . ." is a key word in Article IX; yet, it is often overlooked, especially by the ASB. Discretion can be defined as freedom of judgment or choice. Despite opinions of both past and present ASB's, student body presidents have acted in the best interests of the University. Yes, some of their actions have been unpopular; yet, none have inflicted real damage to the ASB. Moves have been opposed because of their unknown nature. I am not suggesting that the president's actions be rubber stamped; rather, that the ASB remembered that he is a competent person who is striving for the best interests of the entire University. He is a discretionary person!

Another duty of the president is to have intelligent opinions. Intelligent opinions, even if they differ from those of the Executive Officers and the ASB express a different opinion via a vote, etc., the president must overtly comply. Covertly, he should be allowed to hold his opinions. He must never become a willow in everybody's wind. If he does, he will not be respected; only liked.

To summarize, the ASB is the student body, the faculty and the administration. The president must consider both the immediate and the future when working as a leader and a follower in these areas. Individual and group creativity must be employed. As a discretionary individual, his best interests are the ASB's, regardless of how his opinions and actions are interpreted by others.

"little things" that have been accomplished.

Everyone is different. No two officers are completely alike. So what, you might say. For this reason, something is bound to change. There is much repetition each year in all Student Body Governments. With a little thought, an accurate system of files could narrow the problem. The old standby of Communications on campus is a constant source of conversation. How much of it is constructive? Is it as bad as you or others imagine? Where did you pick up this newspaper? For only 90 cents a day, a news-sheet is published for 500 students. Do you read it? If the stage of perfection is ever reached in the area of Student Government and its constant relations with the community, watch out! We could take over the city and state.

As First Vice President one has the chance to be at the head end of a very dynamic organization with a $40,000 budget each year and 2000 students to lead. It is the start of a road that will lead you, in time, to a spot where the whole world will be at your feet. Where else could a man or woman see 2000 others benefit from his or her unselfish actions. This is a chance of a lifetime! Do you want it?

As a member of Finance Committee, he learns quickly (?) about budgets, debits, credits, and higher mathematics.

And finally, as the chairman of Student Activities Committee, he co-ordinates all the affairs on campus (although there are more than we hear about, I understand). In this capacity he has the opportunity to work with a great variety of interesting people. There is a chance to gain many friends, but it sometimes becomes necessary to carry out decisions which are very trying on friendships. To the people who know what I mean by this I'd like to say, "We're still friends, aren't we?"

I'd like also to say that I have enjoyed every moment of this experience and appreciate the encouragement and co-operation I have received from the sororities, fraternities, independents, and other campus organizations — Thanks a bunch!

The job of Second Vice President is an outstanding opportunity to work with and for the student body, and is well worth the time and effort it demands. There will be someone new behind the desk of the 2nd Vice President in a few weeks . . . Interested?
